Yuengling Brewery Tour & Camping Trip

Last month we took tours of both the Yuengling and Troegs Breweries in Pennsylvania. This was a great opportunity to visit America's Oldest Brewery and America's Newest Brewery all in one day. If you have the chance, we highly recommend both tours.

The new Troegs brewery is located right next to Hershey Park. The private tour offers you the chance to taste and smell not only the beer, but all of the hops and barley ingredients. You need to book a few weeks in advance, but we were lucky enough to get in off a wait list. It was a shame we didn't have more time to go through all of the different beers on tap, and have some more of the surprisingly good bar food.

The Yuengling tour was also great, but for other reasons. If you want to learn about America's brewing history then you will love this tour. The Yuengling Brewery offers visitors a chance to see high volume machines and brewing at work. The only downside was the tour only comes with one free sample, and not much memorabilia. Then again it was a free tour.

This being the Chesapeake Ski and Board club we also tried our hand at camping. While this adventure was far from "roughing it" we still had a great time cooking tons of food, chopping fire wood, and making a giant campfire.
